Chuck,
 It's been fun playing Sin with you, but I stopped because I was taking your

 And that's what Chuck Dizenfield means to me. I guess you never got you're head

The Fairfax County School Board envisioned and formulated plans for a new school, Lake Braddock, in 1968. At this point in time the Glen Construction Company came into the picture. Under their instruction twenty sub-contractors were appointed to help with the building of our school.

Our school was the result of the high population growth and many new subdivisions being built in the area. The choice of constructing an "open school" was made by the School Board because the public and educational responses to this concept had been enthusiastic.

The groundwork began in October of 1971 for what was to be the predecessor of a new and innovative concept in modern education—Lake Braddock Secondary School. Life was given to a unique institution in which the recent open-classroom theory of teaching replaced the more traditional methods. Under his care, supervision, never ending interest, and after many months of staff and curriculum planning at Robinson Secondary School, Mr. John Alwood, the school's principal, first introduced Lake Braddock to the community in January of 1972.

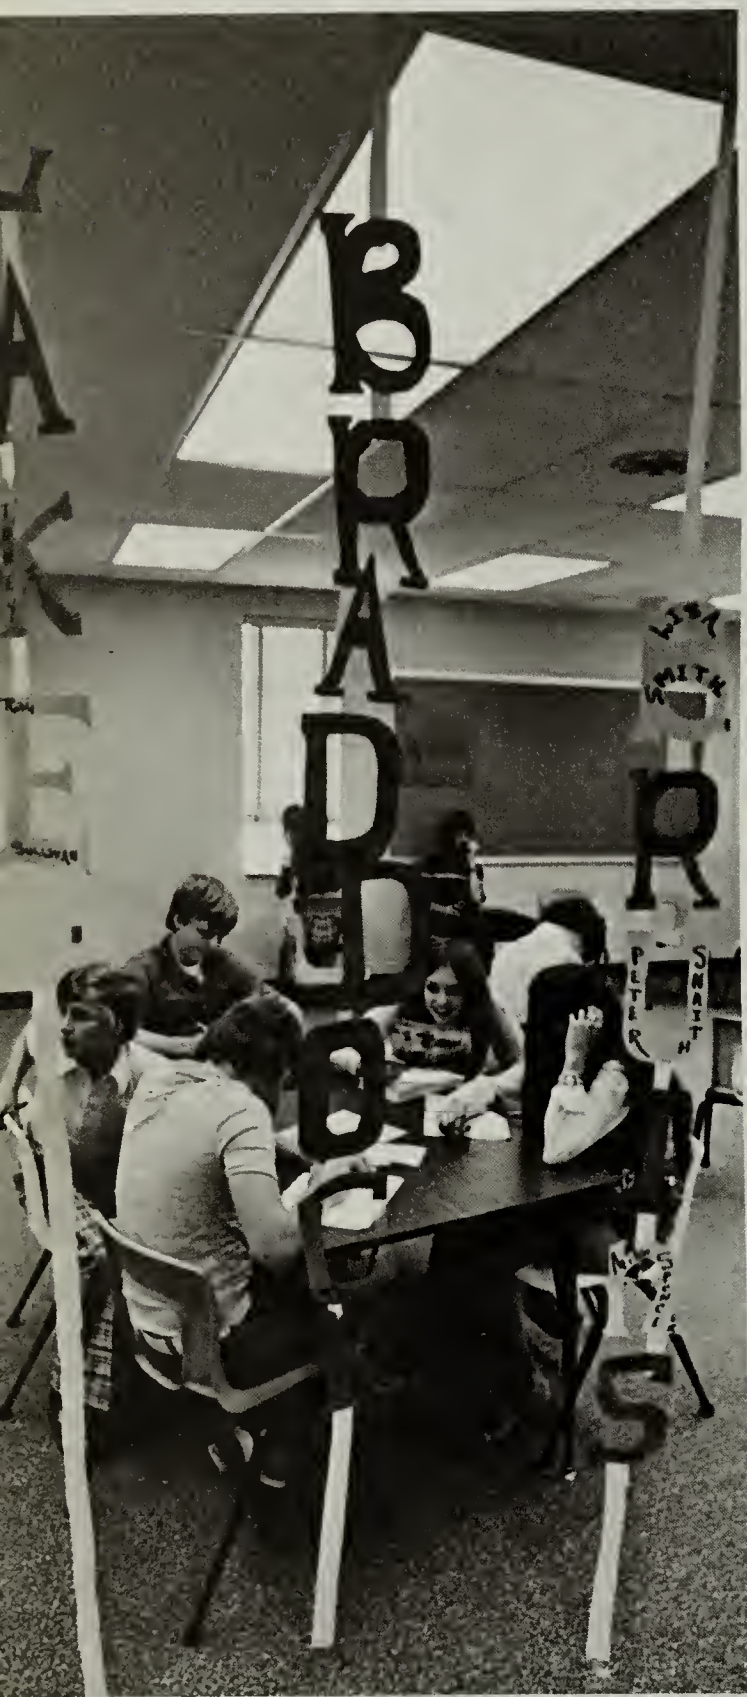

In April, 1973, while the construction crews worked on the unique habitat for the Braddock Bruins, a mass meeting of about 300 future Lake Braddock students from Robinson and West Springfield High Schools was held for the purpose of choosing the school colors, purple and gold. The development of the school's own identity, character and spirit had begun, only to culminate with the orientation meetings in May. These sessions enabled Mr. Alwood and three other staff members Mr. Price, Mr. Carson and Mrs. Walker, to inform students from area elementary, junior and senior high schools about the novel change in education, to which the students reacted with enthusiasm and positive responses.

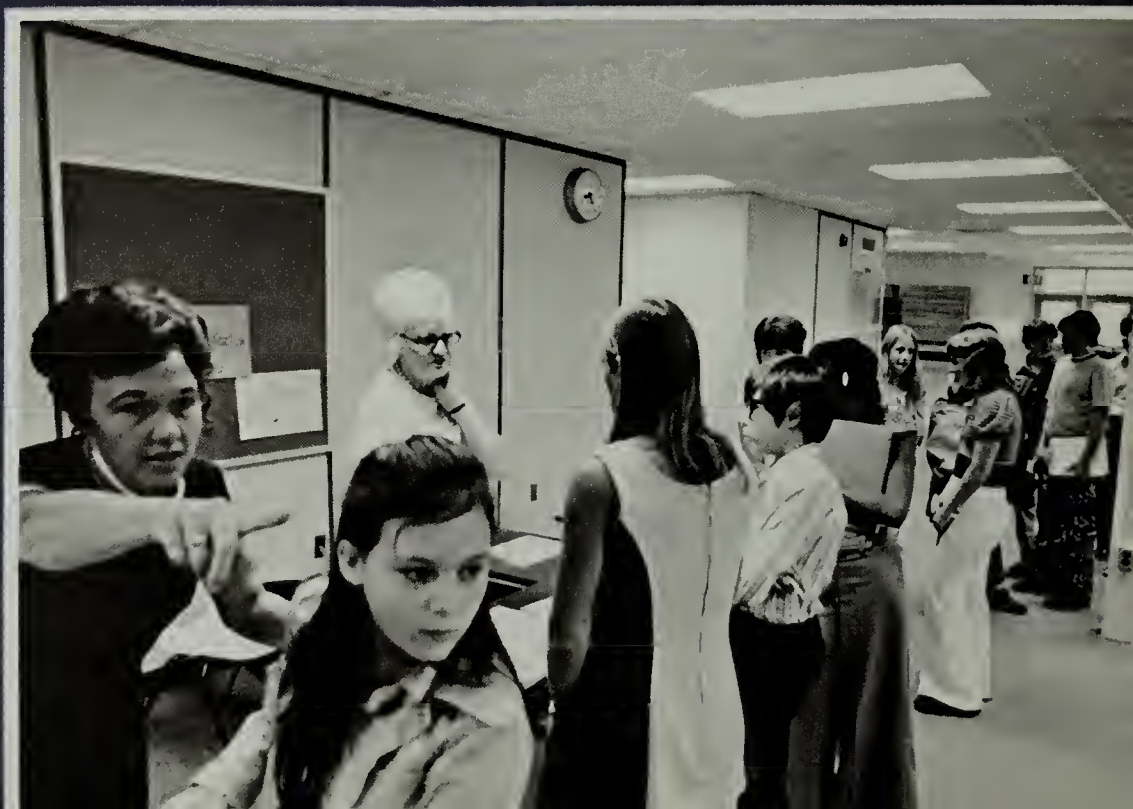

August 1, 1973, was the day when the cold, expansive building of red brick and cement was transformed into a home, full of people who were interested in creating unity between teacher and student, faculty and community

The successful Barbeque on August 26, 1973, was a true indication of such interest on the part of students, parents and faculty members. When the 2400 students finally opened the first school session on September 4, 1973, their eagerness, spirit and youthful reflections perfected the final transition from the many long months of thought and planning at Robinson to the realization of new theories, new ideas, and new ideals at Lake Braddock Secondary. Activity replaced blueprints.

Orientalion day brought much mourning and groaning as well as wide-eyed surprise. The first day was an experience to be remembered.

As you raced down the hall and up the stairs and back down the hall looking for your class and a teacher named Vacancy, you may have heard the following comments:

"It's bigger than my school last year!"

"I wish I was back at Robinson."

"This is a school?"

"Where are the walls?"

"Do you hear bells?"

"Who-ho-ho, carpeting!"

And thus we were told to grin and BEAR it, for another three to six years.

Red lights blinking on buses. . .
. . .thundering footfalls descending from buses. . .slamming car doors. .
. . .stumbling along unfinished sidewalks. . .all evidences of opening day activities.

For the first time we attended all classes even though we had a shortened schedule due to the incom-pleted construction of the cafeteria.

At the same time we could not understand what we were doing in school—the air-conditioning was faulty, we were too many students for too few tables and chairs, seventh graders were busily manipulating their combinations, eighth graders were socializing at every opportunity, ninth and tenth graders were searching for smoking areas; but we were all mastering our schedules and handbooks, confident that someone knew what was happening.

Our shortened schedule continued for two weeks, and as we were about to get used to changing thirty-five minute classes without bells, the cafeteria was completed and we were on full days starting September 17. At last we had a place to eat, but we had to start brown-bagging it, for the kitchens were not yet in use.

The absence of walls was growing less obvious while the “openness” was becoming routine. We were beginning to form together to involve our new surroundings in our learning experience. We were unique; we were pioneers.

We Are the Bruins!

Brigitte Smith doing the day's inventory. When she says "vir" she means liver.

Our staff went to the cafeteria one Monday morning to talk with Mrs. Rademacher, Cafeteria Manager, and Mrs. Smith, Assistant Manager, and we found out some very interesting things.

First, did you know that our cafeteria offers up to five selections every day on its menu:

1. Regular luncheon
2. Hamburger luncheon
3. Hotdog luncheon
4. Salad luncheon
5. Soup and crackers

The first four of these meet government standards for what is called a "Type A lunch". Well, we didn't have any idea what a "Type A lunch" was, so we asked . . . the "Type A Lunch" is composed of a least two ounces of ready to serve protein rich food, at least 3/4 of a cup of fruit and/or vegetables, a 1/2 pint of whole or low fat milk, a slice of enriched bread and a pat of butter or margarine.

We also learned this meal is designed to provide one-third of a student's daily food requirements.

The main dish lady lends a hand with the mop.

All food for these meals is prepared in our own kitchen. No packaged mixes or prepared foods of any kind are used to prepare our lunches. Mrs. Rademacher said all our cafeteria workers have children in Fairfax County Schools, enjoy being around students and enjoy cooking very much. She added that she and her staff have a strong interest in making the Lake Braddock Cafeteria the best in the county. She also said (which we found hard to believe) our students here at Lake Braddock have been very good about keeping the cafeteria clean. Mrs. Rademacher said she wanted to thank the student body for the pride they have taken in their cafeteria.

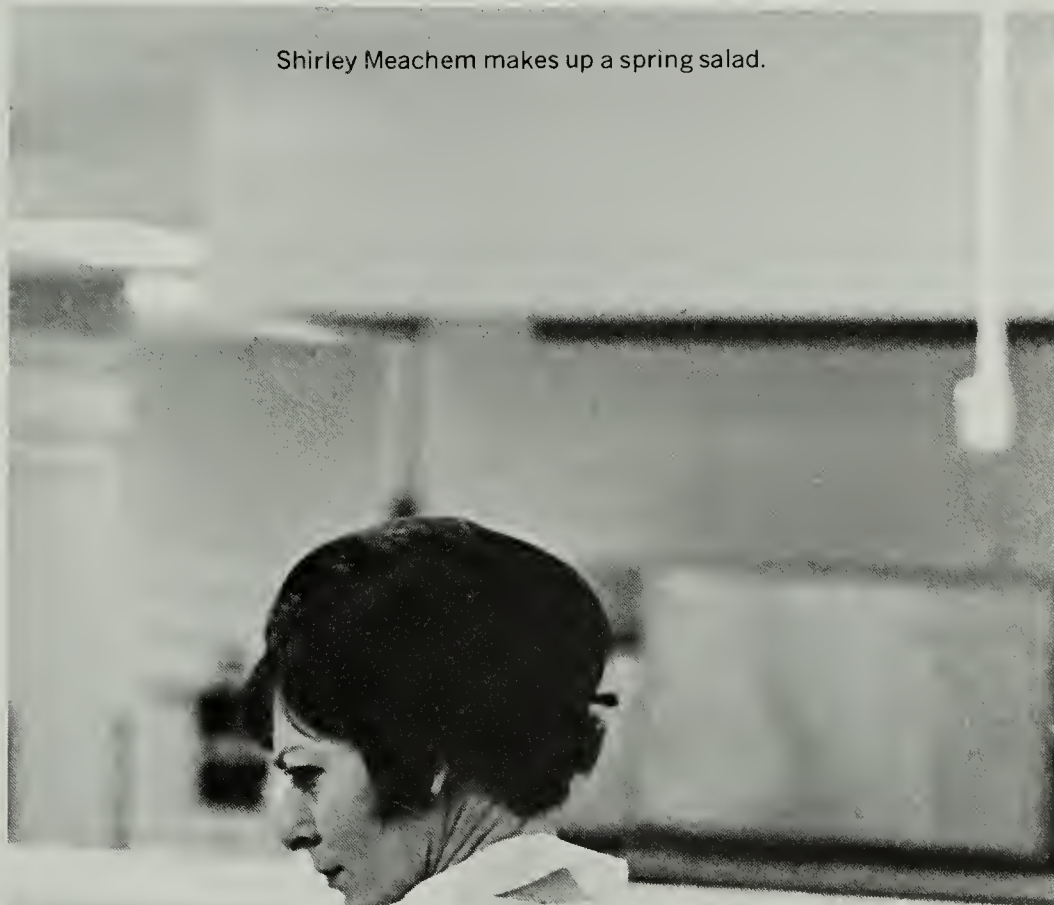

One of the innovations at the Lake Braddock Cafeteria is the cari-all plastic tray. These eliminate the use of the permanent type of dinnerware which had a high loss rate and an accompanying cost of installing and maintaining a dishwasher.

Another innovation is the pot washing machine which only Lake Braddock and Chantilly have and which eliminates the hand-washing of pots in each department.

The process,
Building the school, until . . .

Reaching an end, the climax, the product,
A school.
In all ways a success.

Where are the stars?

We are significant, unique.

S P O R T S

Boys' Football

Starting a new school has its advantages: The enthusiasm of the athletes, faculty and community and the opportunity to "set the tone" of the program. It also has its problems: Incomplete facilities and uniting groups from different schools into one team. One of the main goals is to give a lot of young men the chance to play football. We ended the season with 165 football players. Another goal is to prepare for a successful entry into the super district in 1975, and our improvement as the season progressed indicates that we are moving toward that goal.

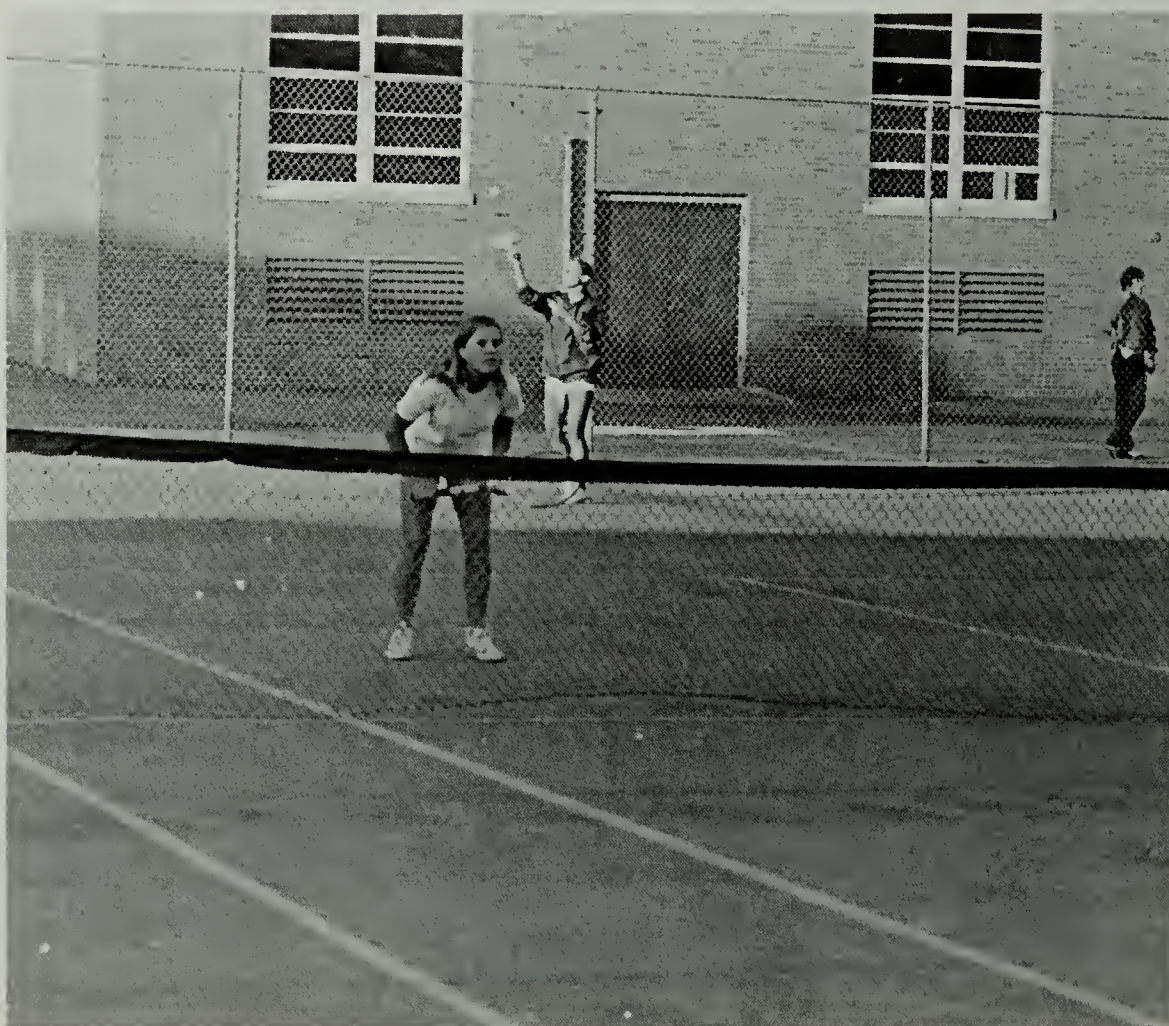

The enthusiasm and desire to improve that our players demonstrated, made coaching a genuine pleasure. I would like to add a special thanks to our assistant football coaches for their hard work and genuine interest in the Lake Braddock student athlete.

Coach Rich Lewis

Girls' Tennis

Starting a new team in a new school has both advantages and disadvantages. Not having tennis courts was a big disadvantage but because of the enthusiasm of the athletes and the help of the community we were able to overcome this and have a good season. My goals as coach were to build a team for the coming years and to give the students who were willing to work an opportunity to be a member of a team representing Lake Braddock. I feel that both of these goals were accomplished.

Coach Kay Norton

Girls' Gymnastics

A new school and a new team makes for lots of hard work. Of course there have been problems, but nothing insurmountable.

I'm sure that when we started, the lack of equipment was a big obstacle. For months our balance beam consisted of the bleachers and/or lines on the gym floor. On the other hand, the equipment was worth waiting for due to the fact that it is top notch.

Unfortunately, gymnastics skills are not developed overnight or in a year or two. Our ninth and tenth graders have to compete on a Varsity level which makes it rough on them.

Our goals, however, are to develop young women with a sense of pride and self-confidence, and this we are accomplishing. I'm glad I can be a part of what some day will be called Lake Braddock Tradition.

Coach Barbara Morris

Girls' Basketball

I am very impressed with the Lake Braddock intramural program; the fantastic variety of activities, the opportunities for boys and girls, equal time participation in everything, including the weight room, and the overwhelming participation of the students. The girls on the basketball, track and hockey teams are in excellent physical condition. Their leadership, cooperation, respect for each other, sportsmanship, team and school pride, and teamwork are highly developed qualities for this age group, and they indicate we will have future teams Lake Braddock can be proud of. I am very proud to be coaching these teams—honestly.

Coach Diane Raynes

Boys' Basketball

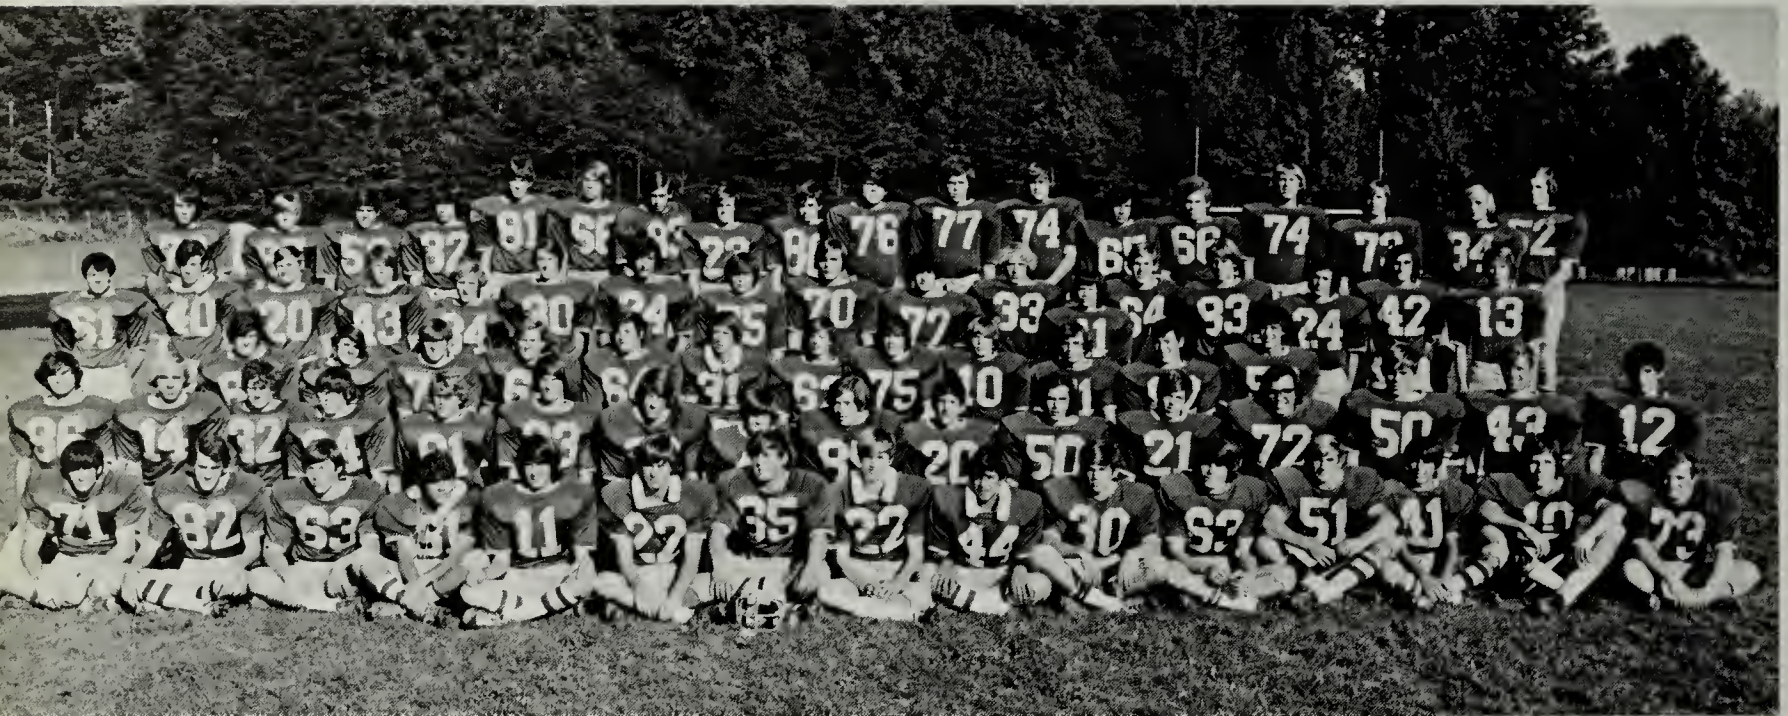

I have been very happy with our basketball team so far. We have tried to build a program with a good sound foundation. The players have been asked to do things that are completely new to them, and I'm very well pleased with the way they have responded.

Starting a new program is about what I thought it would be. I helped start a program at Edison High 11 years ago. One of the problems is finding boys who are willing to work hard enough to become outstanding players.

Our goals, of course like any team, include a state championship for the 75-76 season. However, our most important goal is always to develop young men that all individuals from the Lake Braddock area can be proud of. If we can develop outstanding young men, all other goals will be secondary.

Wrestling

One of the basic principles of competitive sports is to provide a set of circumstances which are obstacles in the pursuit of success. The challenge is to overcome these obstacles within the framework of established rules. Preparation for the individual confrontation with an obstacle is an important part of wrestling.

Wrestling, as well as other competitive athletics, prepares a man for life. Life, as well as competitive athletics, has obstacles within a set of rules, which must be overcome in order to be successful.

WHAT IS A BRUIN?

"Everything you wanted to know about Bruins, but were afraid to ask."

"A Braddock Bruin?—Someone who goes to Lake Braddock and is interested and involved in its activities"—Kathy Daly.

"It's a bear." Karen Stride.

"You mean like a school Bruin or a bear Bruin? a person with a lot of spirit." Debbie Stromeyer.

"A big bear" Mrs. Mayhugh.

One girl was asked, and she stood up placing her arm in a salute. Holding this position, she began humming "HAIL TO THE CHIEFS".

"A dedicated girl athlete" Miss Raynes.

"A Bruin (note picture) is a virile hunk of a man. This brute has a crew-cut, Bobby socks, and a dimple in his chin. He's so cute!! His grin alone contains 352 teeth. Special sneakers are custom made for his size 22½E feet. He is a clean cut, all-American superboy, who loves apple pie, his girlfriend and his mother, in that order." Connie Foran.

"A Bruin is a real animal!!!!" Melissa Davis.

"He's a symbol of our school." Mrs. Kuhn.

"A person who is very strong of character and fair. When I think of a bear, I immediately think of his strength. Nature put him into an environment, where, if he is to survive, he must be powerful. From day to day he lives in a world that is challenging. The fairness is more of a human characteristic. I like to think of a Bruin as being fair" Mr. Johnson.

In December, the Bruins joined the nation in the struggle against the Energy Crisis. The temperature was lowered, the activities were curtailed, and the time was modified. Our Christmas Lists changed as a result of the sixty-eight degree building. We began dreaming about sweaters, warm woolen socks, Bruin jackets, and Redskin stocking hats instead of Gnip-Gnop, Lionel Trains, or Suzy Homemaker Ovens.

Bruin athletes had an added three-week training period due to the unexpected snow-week and Christmas vacation, but the week of January 7th was a very hectic one in order to make-up all postponed games. The gasoline shortage affected the late buses; seventh period activities were completely eliminated on Mondays. Teachers became acutely aware of the shortages when all proposed field trips were permanently cancelled. And ten-speed bikes were then added to our Christmas List, while parents formed car pools to lessen the severity of the Energy Crisis.

As the moon descended behind Lake Braddock, we blindly felt our way through the darkness, rain and fog to begin each new day. We were thankful for warm shelter and anxiously anticipated the weeks ahead that would bring lighter mornings and warmer air.

January '74 - DST left its mark!

All You Ever Wanted To Know About Bruins But Haven't Had A Chance To Ask

Some bears seem cumbersome and slow, but the Bruin bear is capable of amazing speed. For short distances he can travel at nearly thirty miles per hour.

The average weight of a large male Bruin is three hundred pounds. He may be nearly three feet high at the shoulders when he is on all fours. When he stands up on hind legs he may be well over six feet tall!

This magnificent animal easily adapts itself to variations in climate topography and food conditions.

Bears may often seem inspired by mischievousness, but they also have bad tempers, for a Bruin will fly into a great rage when his desires are thwarted. He will work himself into a frenzy when a locked cabin, box or can keeps him from food. His mood can change from one of playfulness to one of irrational, hot anger without warning. A Bruin will become ferocious when food is offered and then withheld, or when defending her young.

The North American black bear, or Bruin, is more powerful than any animal of equal size. This power enables him to crush the skull of a deer with a single blow or drag a 300 pound log along with him after he has become entangled in a trap. The stomach of one bear was opened to display two quarts of yellow jackets. He had swallowed them whole! "Mmmm, good!"

Bears love honey. They will raid wild bee trees or farmer's bee hives. They have even climbed telegraph poles and torn wires down because they mistook the "hum" for the droning of bees.

During the spring, summer and fall the bears of northern latitudes have no fixed homes and roam widely throughout their area. In winter, however, they retire into their lairs and spend most of their time in deep sleep. Frequently, they are partially enclosed by a wall of ice formed by the moisture of their breath. This deep sleep is not recognized as hibernation because body temperature, pulse rate, and other physiological changes do not come to a complete stand-still as in true hibernation.

What is school for? To learn the three R's? To involve the student in expanding activity and responsibility.

What does school mean to a student? Is it a place to make friends? Perhaps it is a dreaded responsibility?

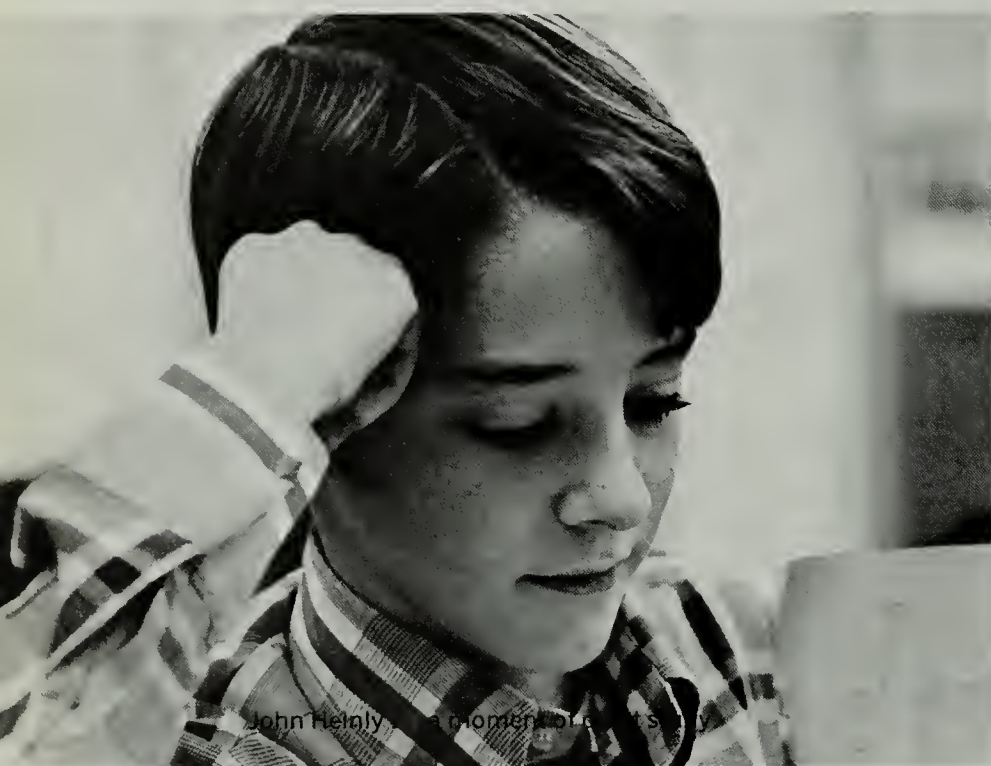

At any given moment it might be any one of these, or all of these. Lake Braddock is a different school. Why?

How does Lake Braddock tie into the concept of "school"?

In the fall of the 1973-1974 school year, none of us was really sure how Lake Braddock would turn-out. Whether it be a failure or a success could not be foretold. We had problems, of course, as does every new school.

An unavoidable fact of Lake Braddock is its architecture. When he designed Lake Braddock, our architect used an entirely different concept of "school". His ideas were far removed from all of the familiar surroundings we've been accustomed to. We found ourselves in rooms without walls. These were called open classrooms. This was a very controversial issue. The parents were less receptive than the students.

Becky Patellas at the Regional Wrestling Tournament.

Lake Braddock wasn't the little, red school-house with the desks in rows and an apple on the teachers desk! But, since we were able to function well in the open classrooms our parents began to see the light.

We feel Lake Braddock has passed the test and has proven that the new layout of open classrooms, with necessities more accessible to the students and teachers, was a better idea.

A new procedure was brought into our daily schedule this year the concept of T.A. (teacher advisor). Each morning every student in the school meets with his teacher advisor for a period of fifteen minutes. The session begins at 8:15 and ends at 8:30, whereupon the students have five minutes to get to first period. The groups consist of approximately eighteen students and their T.A.

In the beginning of the year we were permitted to "check-in" to our T.A. so that he could give us any bulletins that were to be taken home, to give us report cards, and interims and to simply let our T.A. know we were alive, breathing, and doin' okay.

Remember the philosophy, "You're responsible for your own actions!"? Well, I guess we were. The happy news soon arrived that T.A. was mandatory.

Some responses to T.A. this year have been:

"It's okay. It shouldn't be mandatory. We should only have to report once or twice a week. I think we should be able to change T.A. every nine weeks."

Wynne Hamilton

"I don't think it is necessary, but I don't mind it."

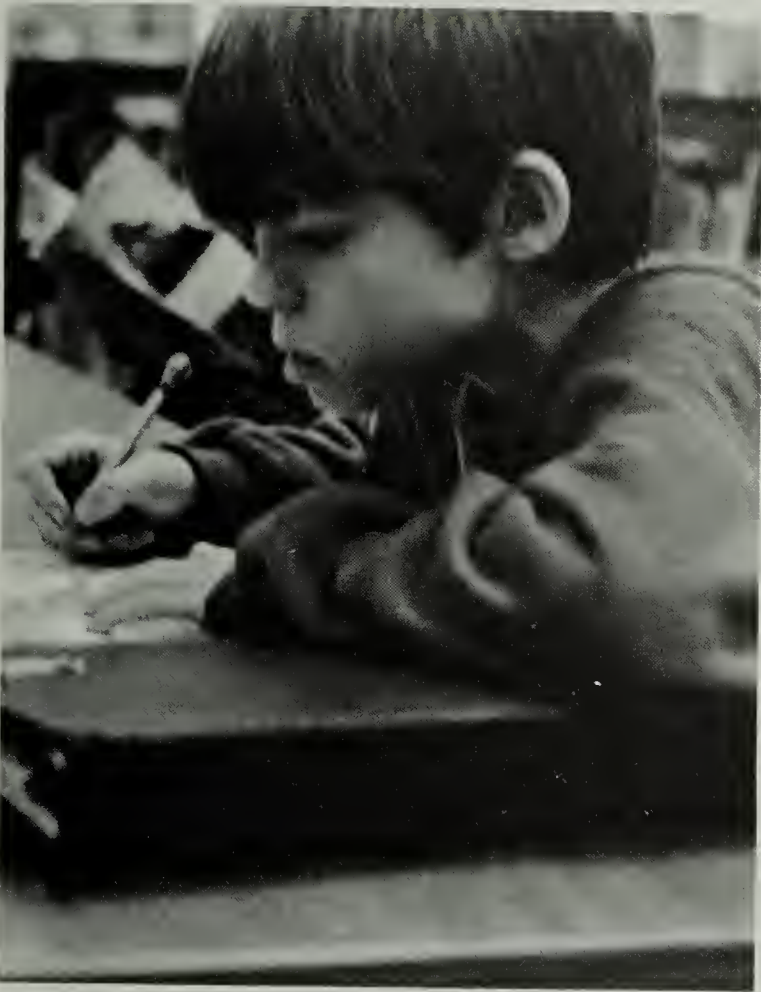

Marianne Ford

Through many extensive interpretations and misunderstandings, the original meaning to T.A. may have been distorted a bit or maybe even lost. Instead of having two or three counselors for an entire sub-school, each teacher has a relatively small group of students for his or her T.A. In a small group, the teacher can get to know the students for their personality rather than simply knowing each student's name. Hopefully, the students are able to relate more openly with a teacher he or she has come to know. The student's T.A. should be more than just a teacher, he or she should be a friend.

We were divided, as students, into four separate sub-schools. Most of us felt imprisoned, at first, in a school with few windows. (There are a few you know.) To some, the halls were too small, and thus, they felt cramped. To others, the halls were much larger than was anticipated.

Greg Jackson creating a wooden bowl on the lathe.

We had difficulties finding our way from one place to another. But, as we grew into our school, our school grew. We named ourselves the "Bruins." Our newly formed student government selected a committee who carefully planned and completed the constitution that all other subsequent classes would be proud to follow. By mid-year there were over twenty-five clubs and organizations formed to serve the diverse interests of the student body.

If you happened to like model railroads, we had a Model Railroad Club. Its purpose was to build and run a large scale model railroad. We had a Forensics Club; FTA, (Future Teachers of America), and an FHA (Future Homemakers of America).

If you were not a part of the many clubs and organizations, you could form a group of your own. Our student government was formed to represent the student body in all areas of activity. By mid-year, our helter-skelter daily activities had developed into comfortable patterns. We, the students at Lake Braddock, will be the first four classes to graduate from our new school. We are many different people, with many varying opinions on how a school should work.

We felt responsibility dropped in our laps. Most of us had found ourselves in a totally new and challenging environment. So we grouped together to overcome the roles and conflicts imposed upon us. This formed a strong bond between teachers and students alike, helping one another to form a system of unity. At the beginning of the year, we dove head first into a pool of new ideas, theories and systems without a clear sense of direction—and we made it. We certainly are new and unique. We are the Bruins.

DRAMA

Everyone takes part in the Drama productions, whether you are the star, supporting player, backstage crew or a member of the audience you are important to the success of the group.

Lisa Leach, Robin Wambold, Carolynne McDaniel and Craig Stewart

Students work many long and hard hours, with Mr. Jones at hand, ready with any advice that may be needed.

The unfortunate delaying of the Little Theater postponed Rip Van Winkle for about four months. With Mr. Jones's talent and encouragement everyone stuck with it and did a very professional job. Thank-you, Mr. Jones, cast and staff.

The Little Theater

The theater was not yet complete as of March first, but the finishing date was near. The theater was perfected by Mr. Jones and as we stand now the theater was the best equipped in the county. Rip Van Winkle will open March 20 and close on the 23rd. Animal Farm, Spoon River Anthology, and "The Brick and the Rose" will be presented in the spring. When the theater is open all the drama classes will move down to the theater and learn first hand instead of from a book. "And the heart will emerge from there instead of from all over the school." Lake Braddock is proud of her theater and can expect many seasons of great performances.

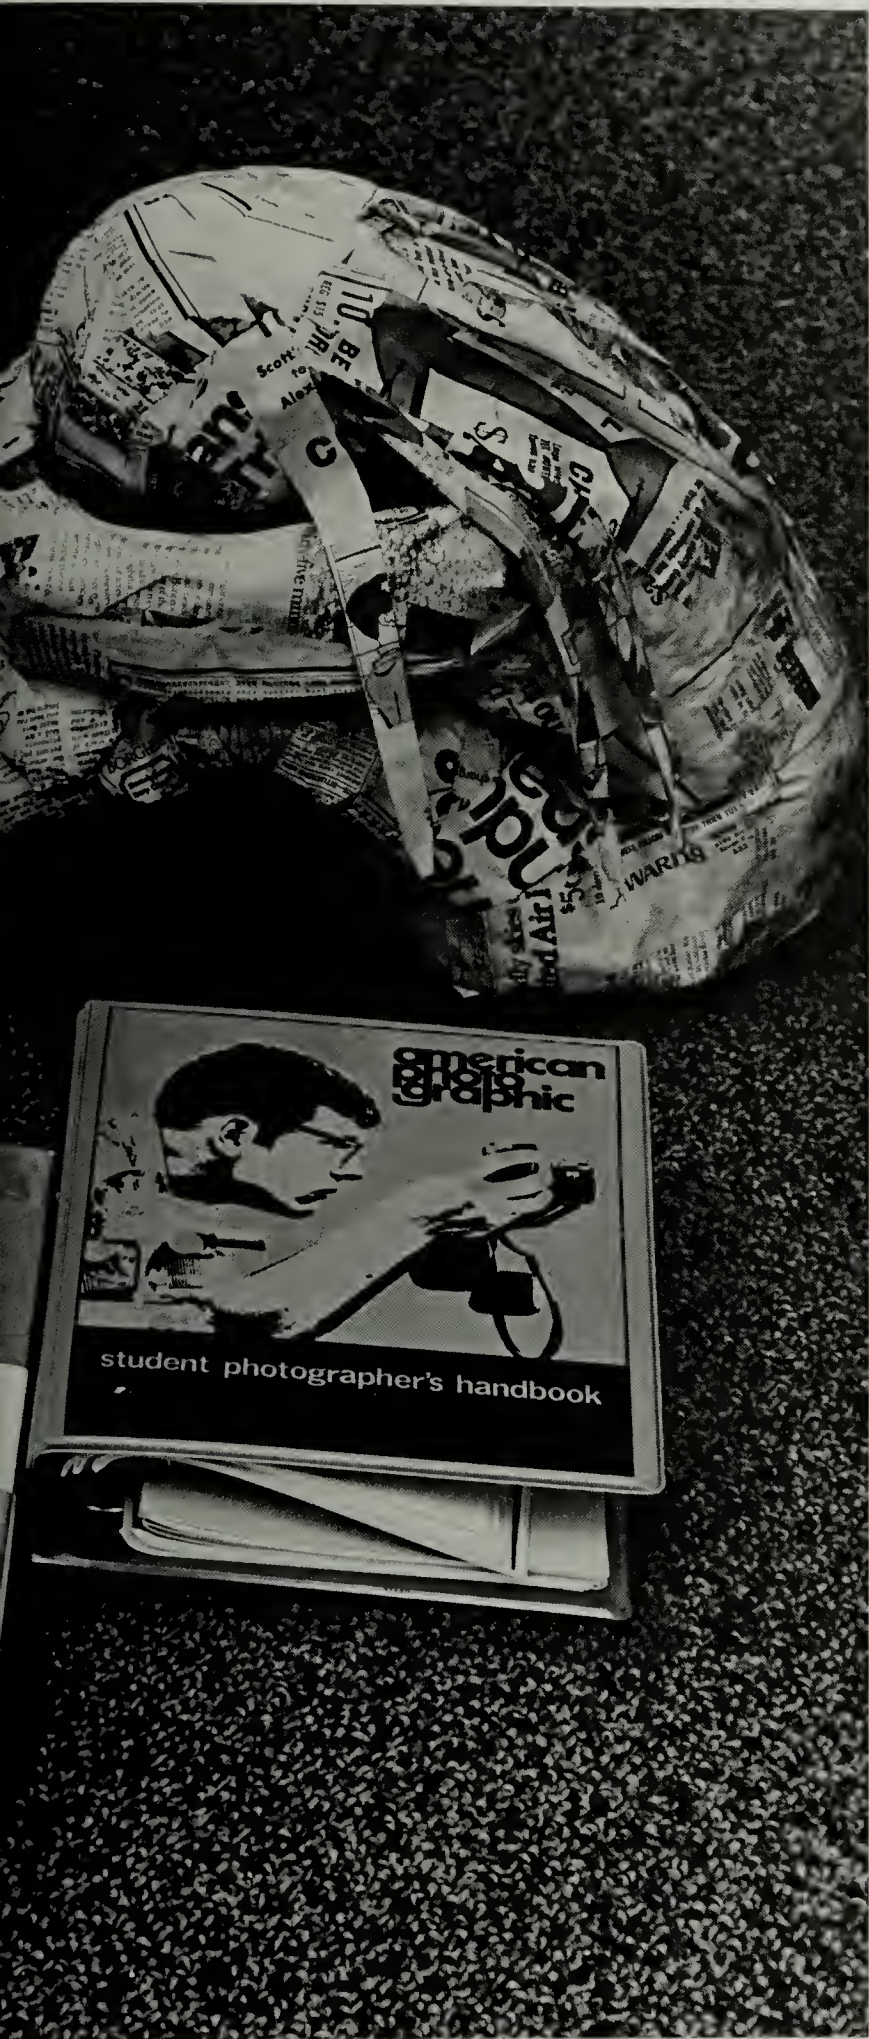

DRAMA IS . . .

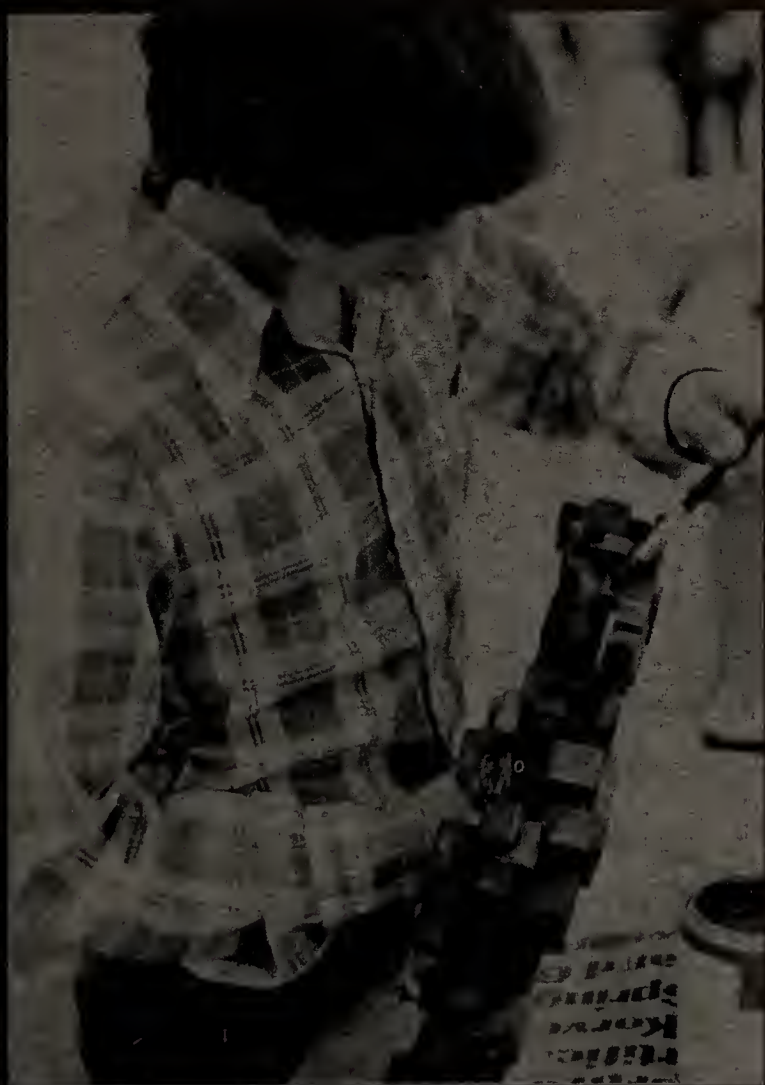

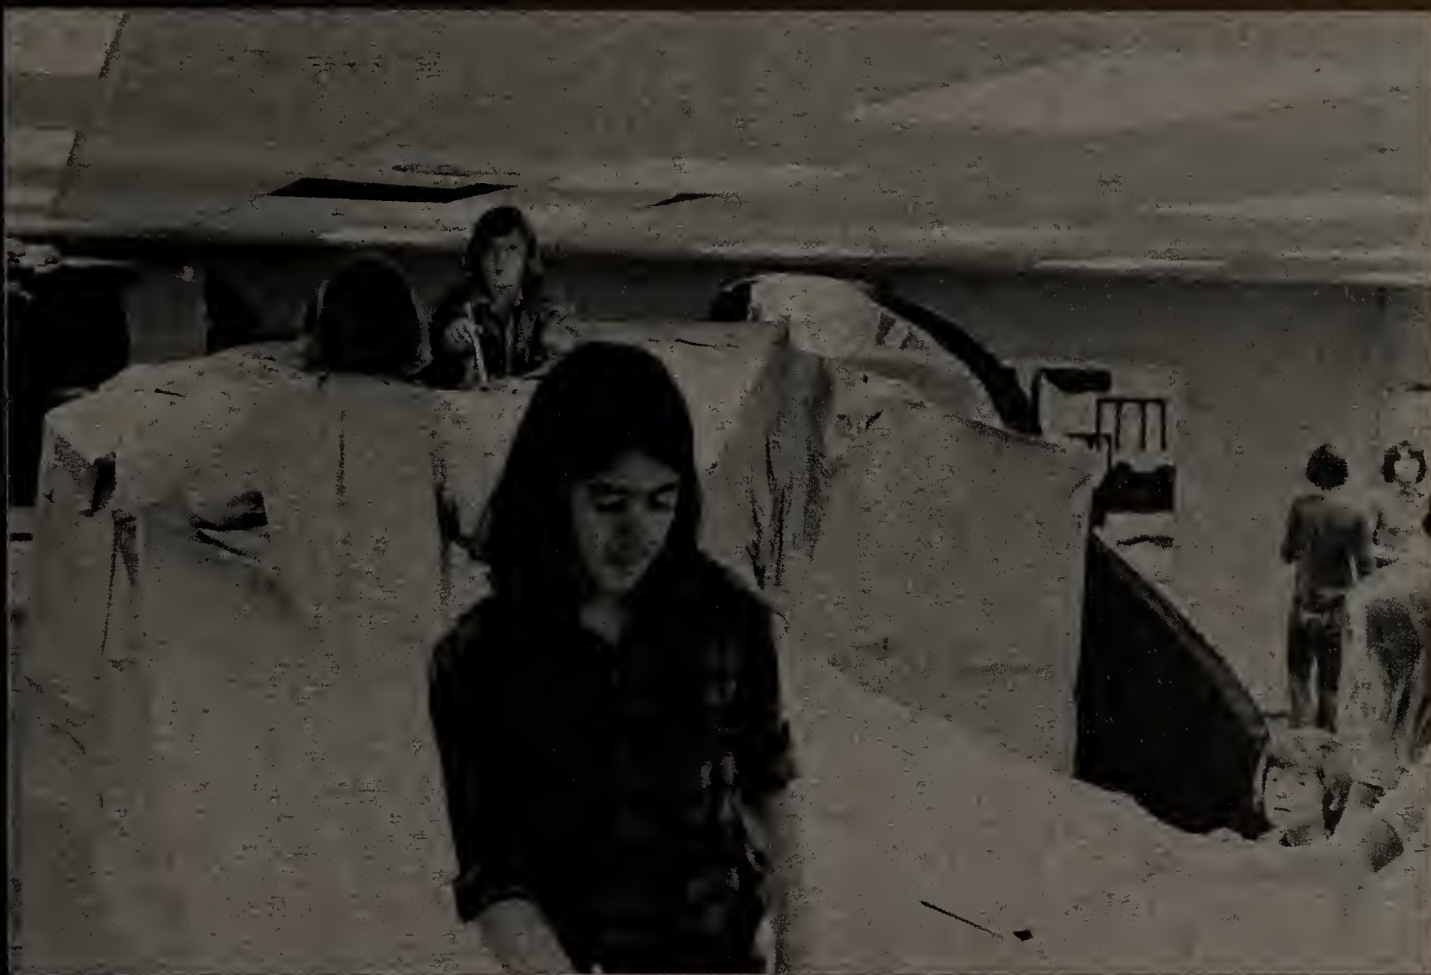

- . . . expressing your innermost desires
- . . . finding yourself within a thousand faces
- . . . much easier than Geometry
- . . . letting out interior frustrations
- . . . having a star on your dressing room door
- . . . getting opening night jitters
- . . . the glitter of lights and the smell of grease paint
- . . . a chance to escape in a world of fantasy
- . . . being able to bring joy and laughter to people
- . . . an art that expresses something of the person

The first of the objects is a large, light-colored, irregularly shaped object, possibly a piece of fabric or a large egg, with dark, curved lines drawn around it. The object is resting on a surface with some other items, including what looks like a small container or cup on the right.

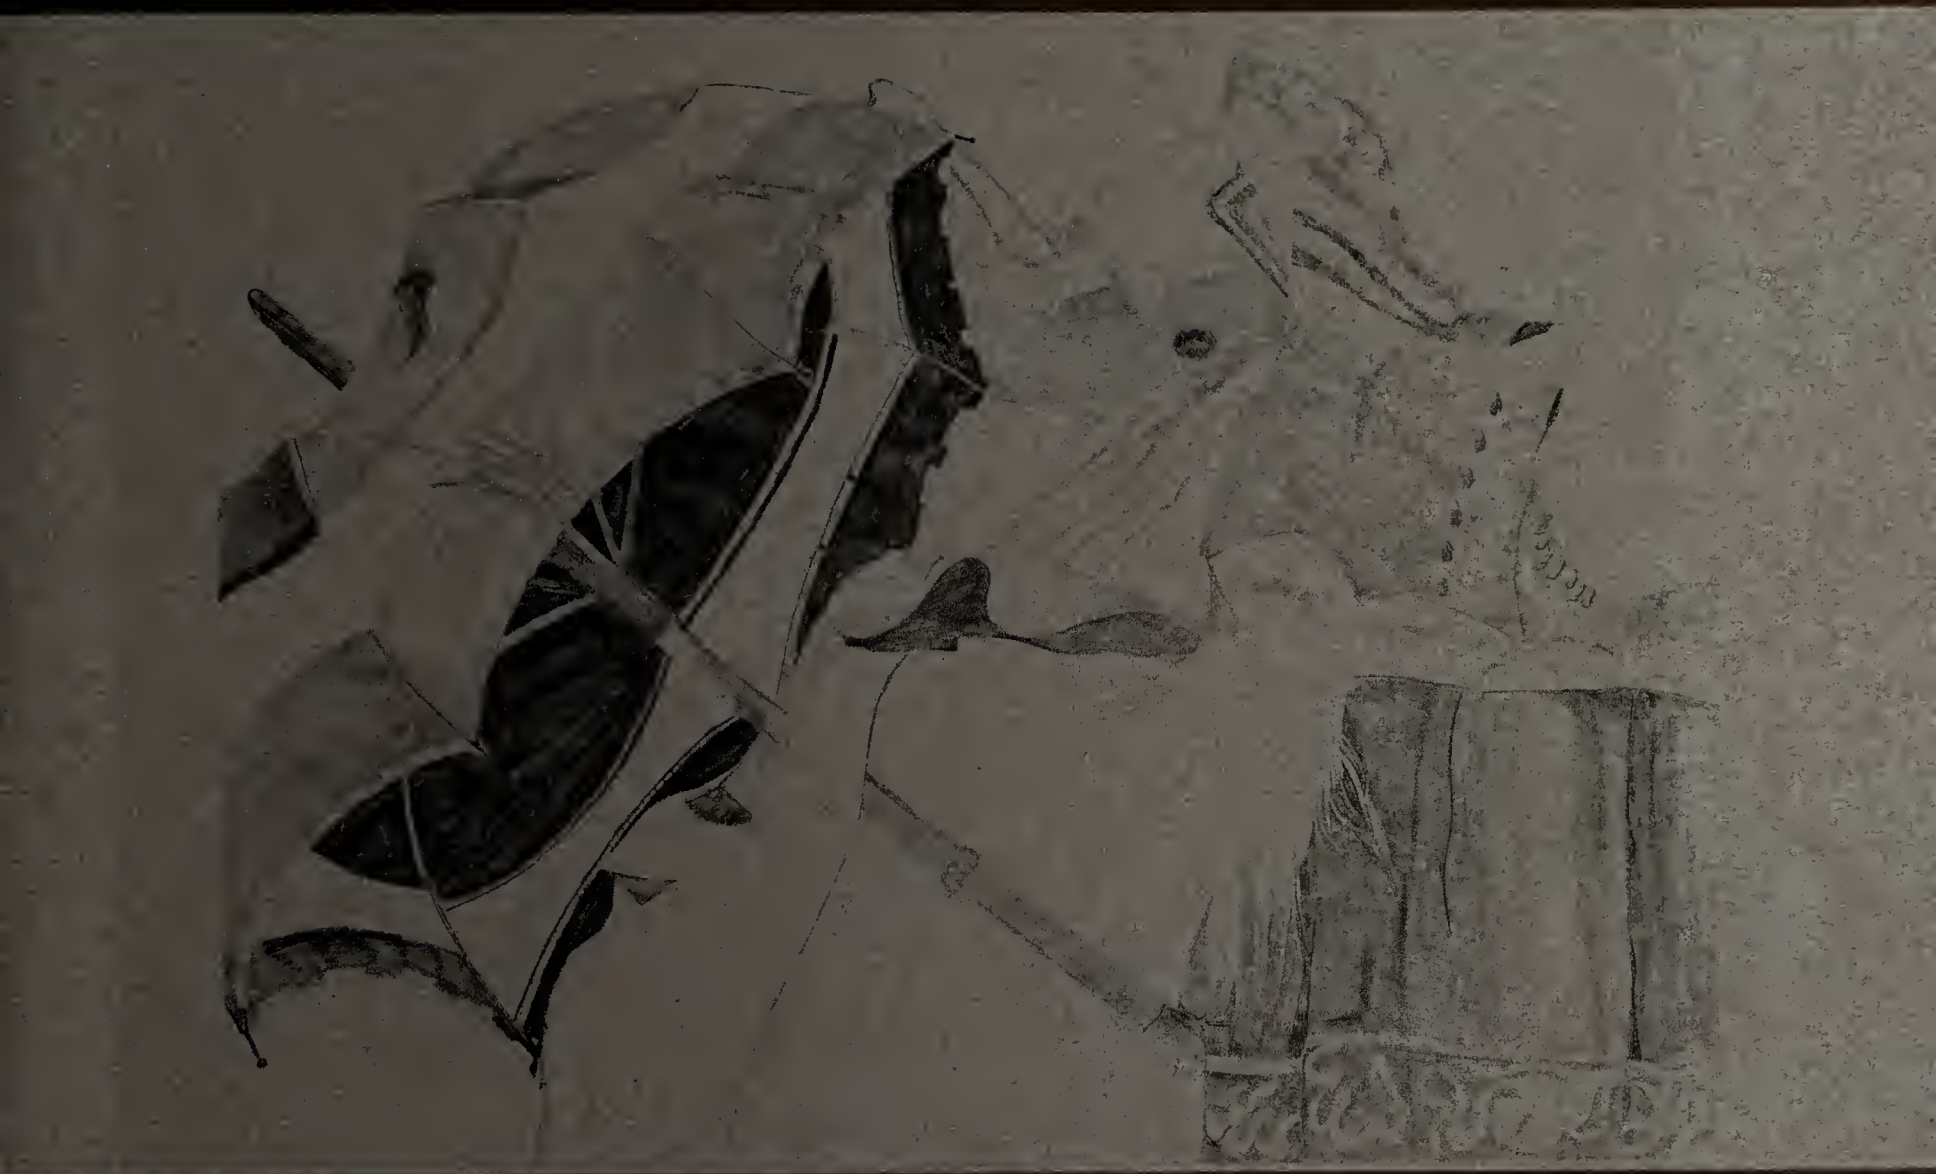

The second of the objects is a large, dark, cylindrical object with a label that reads 'GRO'. There are also several smaller, dark, rectangular objects, some of which are wrapped in a dark material. The objects are arranged on a light-colored surface.

The 1973 Lair was printed in offset lithography, by the American Yearbook Company, State College, Pennsylvania. The cover of the book was designed by members of the staff. It represents Lake Braddock's theme for its first year, "The Birth of the Bruins." The type style is News Gothic and the paper stock is 80 pound matte text and 80 pound slate brown text.

The success of the Lair was due to the help of many people who devoted endless hours to it. The staff would like to thank them.

A special thanks to the following people:

Ms. Barbara Brant for putting up with us here at home and at Charlottesville.

Ms. Joni Dimm for turning our ideas into a cover.

Ms. Susan Leidemer for the art section of the book.

Mr. Daniel Webster for the outstanding faculty candids.

Mr. Bill McIntyre for rushing our prints back to us.

Ms. Hill for canvassing the area for ads.

Ms. Rubino for the mountains of typing she did which we needed so desperately.

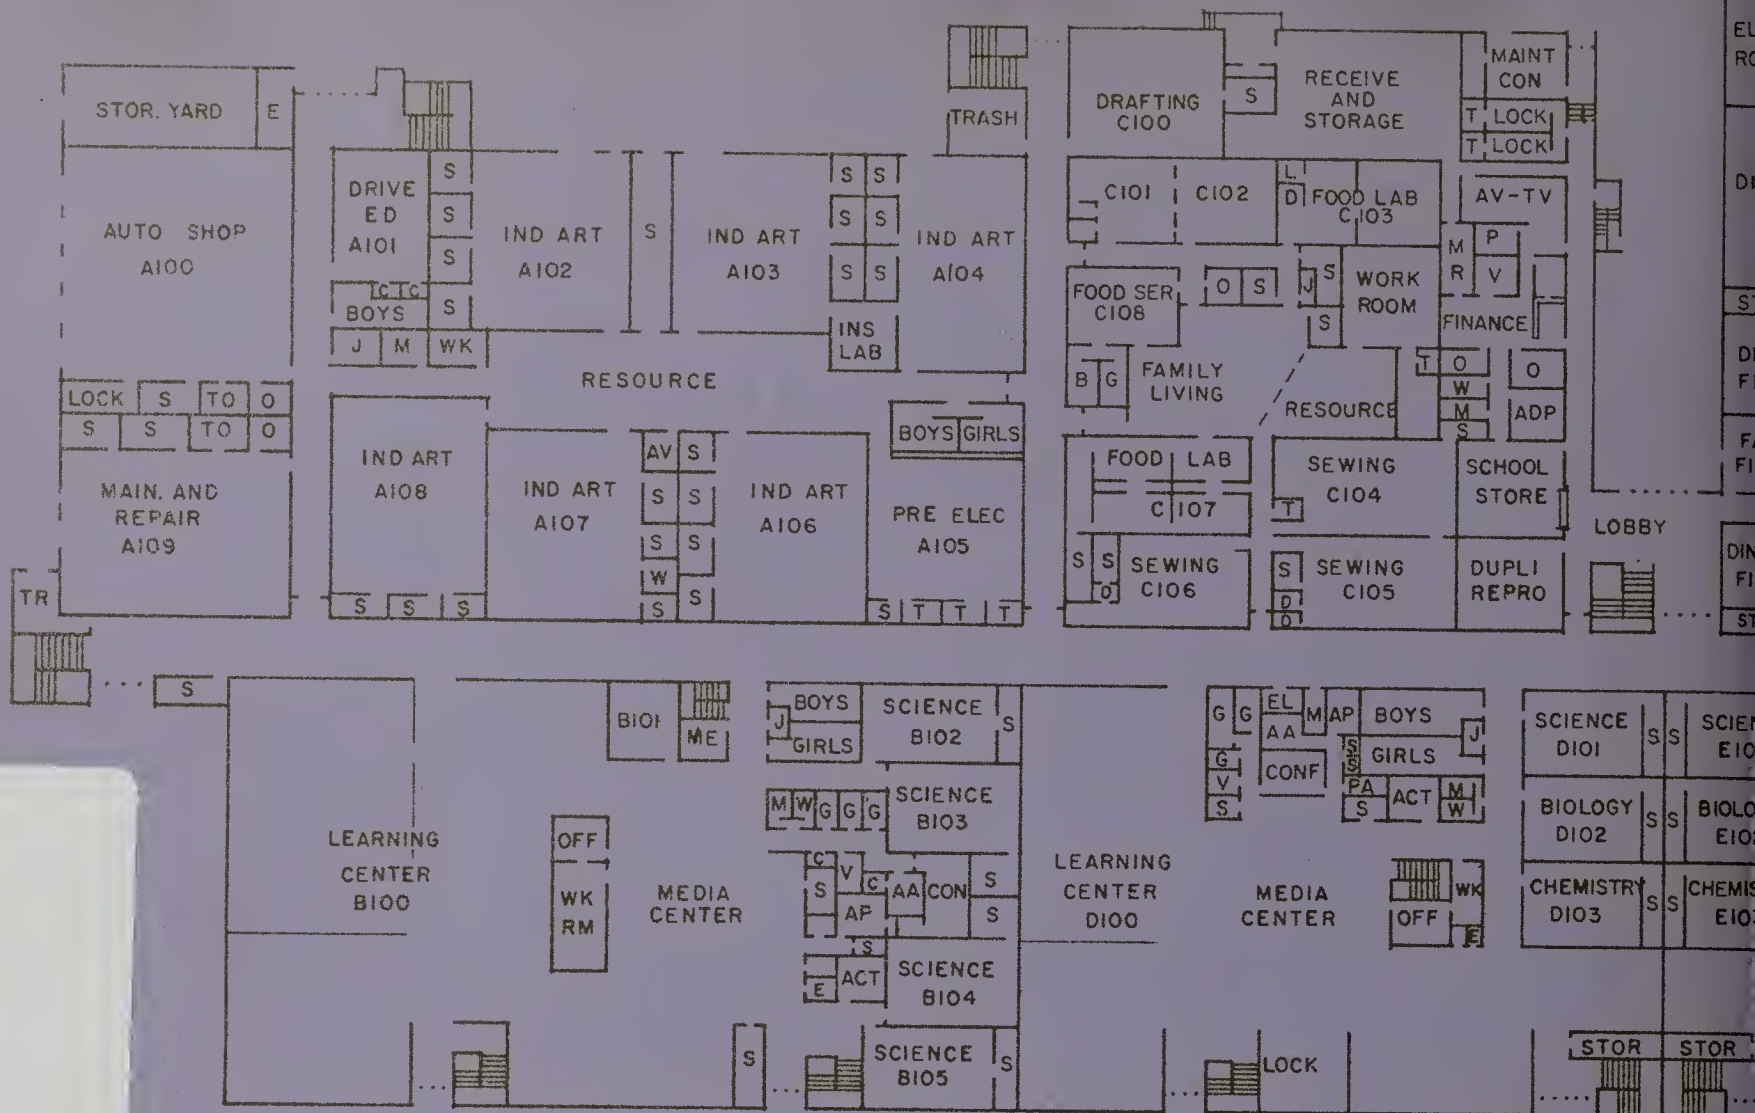

Ms. Oliver for the "dictionary" pages.

Mr. Nygard for taking outstanding underclass pictures.

And last but not least our two advisors, Mr. Derr and Mr. Shoun, who patiently sat with us every afternoon for the last six months. We would have never gotten the book out without their inspiration.
